Welcome to term three 2017 at WRCC we hope you find something in our upcoming offerings which assist you to join into WRCC activities. If you can't find a program to suit your learning need call the college to explore how we can assist. We like saying yes!

Contemplating saying yes and why saying Yes is better than the answer of No. There will be times when it is impossible to say yes. For example, breaking the law. The question, can you help me rob the bank? It is an easy No. However, if we consistently say no this is the end it is a full stop! There is no action, no journey, and certainly, no life experience. Without life experience, we cannot later reflect upon fond memories or valuable life lessons.

On the other side of the coin when we say YES we open the door to new experiences. For example. Do you want to come out to dinner? Yes! The ensuing actions provide shared experience and generate memories which build who we are. The experience of travelling to the restaurant. There is conversation while at dinner. The food. The food was beautiful or terrible or how did they make it, it's delicious. The service was fantastic, or the service was poor. Or "If I ran the restaurant I wouldn't do it that way". In this sense Yes, is a facilitator and yes open's the view to life experience. NO! = at home on the couch, potentially alone.

Western Riverina Community College invests in the idea of saying yes. We want to be involved in your invitation to dinner; we want to labour with you to construct life experience. Our goal is to say yes wherever possible. But as per the analogy above, saying yes does have its boundaries. The college would like to say yes to assist with individual, group or organisational learning needs.

Some of the questions asked.

- Our organisation needs a team building challenge?
- I need help to gain new skills to get a job?
- We have a dilemma, can you provide OHS construction induction (white card) in Tamworth in Mandarin?
- We need help to upskill our employees in IT.
- We need help to develop project management skills?

These are, but a few examples where the college said yes. In each of the above requests, the college found a way to say yes, in turn, met the learning needs of individuals, groups and organisations which generate the bricks which construct our community through learning.

Help us to help you say yes to your learning need and build your life experience.
